

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a suspension system for in-line skates. The in-line skate includes a boot and a tracking system attached to the sole of the boot. Opposing rocking arms that hold the wheels are connected to the tracking system using a truncated axle. In addition, an 5 adjustable spring can be configured between the opposing rocker arms.

CH02/22201013.1